

Model Cara Delevingne has beaten the skinny-brow trend

HIGH BROW

Thanks to the Cara Delevingne effect, thicker brows are back in vogue. Traditional tweezers remove stray hairs but if, like me, you are aiming for groomed, more lush, shapely arches, three new browbeaters can help.

Maybelline Brow Drama Sculpting Mascara in Dark Blonde, £4.99, darkens and holds hairs

Glamtech Brow Comb Tweezer, £6, helps groom brows upwards before tweezing; visit glamtech.co.uk

MAC Oval 6 Brush, £33.50, part of the new ergonomic-handled Masterclass Brush Collection, this is just right for applying brow powder in a controlled way. Available from January

BEAUTY

BEAUTY INSIDER

Sometimes, products come along that are so good you wonder how you did without them. HELLO!'s beauty editor Nadine Baggott shares her latest finds

BODY TALK

I'm not a fan of gunky body creams, but in winter we all need some hydrating help. That's why I love Sarah Chapman Skinesis Overnight Body Treatment, £49, from Space NK, a super-lightweight oil that smells divine and is absorbed in seconds – perfect for dry legs, arms and hands. If you're going to expose more skin this party season, Ioma Cocoon Feet, Elbow and Knee Cream, £32, from Harrods, will instantly smooth away any knee and elbow wrinkles and give a soft-focus finish.

Chloé Ally Solid Perfume Necklace, £45, contains the best-selling Chloé scent, with notes of magnolia, peony, amber and cedarwood

Robert Piguet Fracas Solid Perfume, £65, from Selfridges, features the much-loved white floral scent bursting with tuberose, gardenia

SO SOLID CREW

Combine a stylish piece of statement jewellery with a fashionable scent and you have

