

What's in my make-up bag?

JASMINE GUINNESS

Model

Rouge Allure in Inimitable £25, by Chanel, from selfridges.com. I use this to look really glamorous

Dream Touch Lumi Concealer £6.99, by Maybelline, from boots.com. I use this as foundation. I think the less you cover your skin with make-up the more luminous and natural it looks. This blends easily soon after moisturising

Hand Cream £21, by Clarins (clarins.co.uk). This is good, smells delicious and feels luxurious. Issy Blow introduced me to it, and I think of her every time I use it

Crème Divine £72, by L'Occitane (uk.loccitane.com). I use this on my face every day. Not only is it anti-ageing, but it also smells incredible and turns my skin into velvet Exaggerate Liquid Eyeliner £5.29, by Rimmel, from feelunique.com. This has been a staple in my handbag since I was 15!

THE TREATMENT

Su-Man Hsu's facial

Using her new, excellent eponymous skincare line, Su-Man Hsu gives great facials. Part-painful, part-relaxing, they include deep facial massage, extractions and a skin analysis to help with any concerns. Brilliant for a biannual skin MOT, but expect a waiting list (Freida Pinto and Juliette Binoche are regulars). £200 for one hour at Away Spa at W London (awayspalondon.com)

INSTAGLAM

This week we're following... jinsoonchoi

aka Jin Soon Choi, manicurist

Follow us at stella_telegraph

1. Mondrian-inspired nail art. 2. The final nail look at Michael Kors winter 2014. 3. A nail art tribute to Jackson Pollock. 4. A berry dot nail with some of my favourite shades.

Rites of Beauty

Lisa Snowdon, model and presenter

At the age of 11 I found my mum's tweezers. I then reshaped (well, severely over-plucked) my brows and had to live with that picture on my passport for the following 10 years. Despite this mishap, I've been into fashion and beauty for as long as I can remember. My mum's make-up bag, lotions and potions provided a lot of interest for me from a young age.

Nowadays I try not to obsess about the imperfections and lines and work with what I've got. I'm a big believer in home treatments with masks and exfoliating, and in cleansing and toning twice a day, serums, moisturisers and sunscreen. I try to have regular facials with lots of massage. I see Sarah Chapman for her amazing bespoke facial, and Dr Prager is on my list for his Botox treatment for lower face, neck and jawline. Other than these, my biggest beauty secret is organic coconut oil by Viridian. I use it everywhere - body, hands, face and hair - and cook with it too. My friends think I'm mad. ●

Visit telegraph.co.uk/fashion